SAPPHO REINCARNATED

This girl, Juanita Clivette of New York, is certain that she is the reincarnation of Sappho. At the age of six she climbed on her mother's knee and said: "Mamma, I have found myself. Who, or what, was Sappho?" Since then she has written thousands of lyrics and painted many charming canvases. She is now only fourteen years old. Her father, who keeps a curio shop, has been an actor, magician, newspaper man and artist. "I am as old as time," says Juanita. "I have been since the beginning. Once I was Sappho. I am again Sappho reincarnate."

Last Sunday the Supt. of Bethany Sunday school announced that a car was being made to raise funds for the Near East Relief and also told the members that they were expected to do their part. Now, Bethany is a very small Sunday school, but they are all liberal in their contributions for a good cause. When the cause was explained they responded immediately, and $65.80 was raised and sent off Tuesday.

The State Board of Health has ordered that travelers on all Missouri railroads will be required to carry certificates of vaccination on and after December 15 as a preventative against the spread of smallpox. Resolutions to that effect were adopted at the University Club in St. Louis by the State Board of Health last Monday night. The resolution states that smallpox is prevalent in a dangerous form in some localities and must be combatted effectively and at once.

HILL'S C. B. Q. Tablets are best by test.

Try this simple experiment:

1. Drop a C. B. Q. Tablet in a glass of clear water.

2. Instantly the tablet begins disintegrating or "breaking up."

3. In 10 seconds the medical properties are thoroughly mixed with water.

Thus, Hill's C. B. Q. Tablets act immediately, give relief without delay and begin checking Colds and La Grippe long before ordinary tablets, by actual test, are absorbed by the stomach juices. To prove this, subject other than C. B. Q. Tablets to the test, and observe that in most instances an hour or more is required for complete disintegration.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Time for Annual Meeting. Next Monday, December 12th, has been decided upon as a double header day for the farmers of Chariton County.

The County Breeders Association is called to meet at 10:00 for a business meeting and to elect officers. At 11:00 a. m. Mr. Cochel, Field Representative of the American Shorthorn Breeders Association, will address the meeting. In the afternoon will be held the Annual Farm Bureau meeting.

C. B. Denman, State Organizer for Missouri, will be here and make an address. Your County Agent will make a report on what has been done during the past ten months.

The fact that Mr. Cochel was a member of the Committee of Fifteen which has been working for several months on a national marketing plan for live stock, and that Mr. Denman who is the newly elected president of the producers Live Stock Commission Association which will soon be organized at East St. Louis under this marketing plan—the fact that these two men will both be here on the same day should insure us having a good attendance of farmers who are anxious to know how they may co-operate with the other farmers of Missouri and with the farmers of the nation in solving some of our problems.

We certainly hope that representative farmers of every community in Chariton County will feel that this is their meeting and that they should come and have a part in saying just how Chariton County will co-operate with the other counties of Missouri and how we will conduct our own business here in the county.

Every farmer in the county is invited and urged to be present at the court house all day Monday, December 12th.

MISSOURI FARMER LOSES BOTH HANDS IN A CORN SHREDDER

Cecil Richardson, 20 years old, of Lewistown, Mo. has been the victim of an accident in which he lost both of his hands while he was working on a corn shredder at his father's home. The young man was rushed to a hospital at Quincy, Ill., immediately after the accident, where it was necessary to amputate what was left of the injured and mangled hands. It is said that had not the machine been stopped promptly his entire body would have been drawn into the shredder. The engineer stopped the engine at his first outcry.

"VAMPS" WHO MADE HISTORY

By JAMES C. YOUNG.

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
THE VAMPIRE WITH AN ANGEL'S FACE.

WHEN Catherine of Russia still was a servant in an East Prussian inn, early in the Eighteenth century a girl named Marie appeared and asked for her help. She was a blonde Swede, named Marie, and told a pathetic story of running away with a young man, who had deserted her when their child was born. She had no money, was weak and haggard. Would Catherine take her in?

Catherine sat the girl down to the best dinner she could find, and watched her eat. "You have the face of an angel," she said, and persuaded her master to let the girl stay. Then the Russians captured the town, and Marie and Catherine fell into the hands of officers.

Marie did not fare so well as Catherine. But she exchanged an officer for a prince. It may be said here that Marie's child had not died, for she murdered it. The father, who had become an officer in the czar's service, met her when she was living with the prince and warned her to spare a second child of which the prince was the father. But Marie fell into a lake with the child, and when rescued it was dead.

A few years later Marie appeared in Petrograd. Catherine had become the czarina, and Marie had powerful protectors. The two women met, and knew each other, but it is said that they never mentioned the days at the inn. Instead, Marie set herself to win the attention of Peter the Great. Falling in this, she waited for him when he was walking in a garden, and threw herself into his arms.

Catherine and Marie, the former friends, now crossed swords for Peter's affection. Both were beauties, and writers of that time bear testimony to Marie's "angelic" face. But unfortunately for her that same officer who had warned her, appeared in Petrograd. And about this time Marie became the mother of a third child, said to have been that of Peter. She killed this child and threw it into an old well. A servant told the news of her deed to the officer, who in turn passed it on to the czar.

Peter ordered a great revel held, and piled Marie with wine until her wits were not her own. Then he took her in his arms, before the whole company, and by the mastery of his will made her confess her crimes. Peter was a devil incarnate to whom the murder of a child would have meant little if it had not been his own. He hung Marie from him, and ordered her execution.

When the headsman had severed the vampire's slender neck, Peter picked up the head and kissed the dead lips.

Al Wilks and Jack Dameron report a delightful trip to Summer and Mendon Saturday in Al's "tin-lizzie." They started out early in the morning and did very well going over, but coming back—the roads were slick and full of holes—this wasn't enough, so they got in several ditches and each time Jack had to get out and pull the car out. The sheriff reports that Dameron pulled the car half way home. Maybe he did.
